

This is a parchment covered with notes. It seems that the writing was scratched off repeatedly. There is no apparent order to the different paragraphs.

VI came in the moonlight
V stood at her side
IV turned against her
III died in the struggle
II returned to finish the work
I is resting in darkness

One is facing the darkness
Two is holding the moonlight
Three is chanting the ritual

I is I
II is odd
III is even

Benedictus claimed that he understands this one. His explanation was almost logical and we allowed him to mark the sides. I hope he was right.

I know there has to be more, but even the book was incomplete.
