

Salve Sodales,

allow me to welcome you to the Provencal Tribunal. These are difficult times and I am happy to see that young and enthusiastic sodales are willing to join us.

The silence of our sodales at the covenant of Fontis Niger made me fear that they left us. Now that you announced your intention to found a new covenant at the same site these fears seem to be confirmed. However, many questions about the fate of the members remain unanswered. To ensure that there are no legal objections to the founding of a new covenant at the site of Fontis Niger the Quaesitor Bernadus Cupidus will investigate the matter. I trust that he will discover all necessary answers to allow the Tribunal of 1363 A.A. To vote on this subject. Let me remind you that you will need to present a Charter for the new covenant at the Tribunal.
